SHERMAN COLLECTION

FUNCTIONAL, ADAPTABLE STYLE

A modern workhorse, the Sherman Collection expertly blurs the lines between industrial style and a new era of modern American design. .

Designed by Tim Stoecker, Filter Studio

THE DESIGN

STACKS UP

Sherman's design stacks up in more ways than one. Material and color play a pivotal role in the versatility and success of this collection. The back of the chair features striking graphic panels that intersect the steel frame. No visible screws are shown, creating a seamless rhythm of modern material. Literally speaking, the Sherman Chair also stacks three high, making it a great option for small spaces.

MEET THE MAKER

Tim Stoecker is a Michigan-based industrial designer with a passion for filtering through the barrage of information we as consumers are inundated with, to create the most pure product for his clients. He is fascinated by the relationship we have with objects and how they can influence our lives in a positive or negative way. Tim and his team at Filter Studio are striving to bring ideas to life through authentic relationship and collaborations with manufacturers such as Grand Rapids Chair.
